Jürgen Hofmanns wines are becoming increasingly precise, deeper and show greater grip, while remaining cool, with a moderate level of alcohol. In a sense, they tell the story of the primeval ocean with its salty notes. This complex elegance can be seen particularly well in the dry Riesling from the Hundertgulden site, which has been bottled for the first time in an additional old vines version: even more multi-dimensional, even firmer and more piquant. With more substances, even more finely textured. Another wine well worth mentioning is the Sauvignon Blanc. The calibrated St. Laurentzikapelle benefits tremendously from the age of the vines, its full-bodied, intense style is strongly reminiscent of South African counterparts such as Vergelegen – The 2012 version has an even cooler style, emphasizing its origin in a cool climate. The new estate building in Bauhaus style, situated among the vines, and with a view of the cellar is well worth a visit!

Jürgen Hofmann produces not only top-rated wines, but also everyday drinking wines of almost luxurious quality, such as the estate wines made from Riesling, Silvaner and Pinot Blanc. And the minerally »vom Muschelkalk« is a good example, as are the Silvaner wines, while the Riesling Niersteiner Oelberg is particularly juicy. A strong performance!
